Animate the Carré Rouge! : Call for Photographs & Animated Sequences

Alison Reiko Loader, Concordia University, Communication Studies and Faculty of Fine Arts

Deadline: 10 June 2012

Do you have a few (or a whole lot of) pictures related to the manifestations casseroles against Bill 78 or the tuition hike protests? Would you be willing to share some for a lightning fast collaborative and experimental animation project that will be online (and possibly in the streets) within the next few weeks?

Animators and illustrators, can you spare some time to make some very short (1-12 image) graphic sequences of exploding, growing or multiplying squares?

I am looking for one thousand or so images, to combine with animated red squares in a synchronic dance, synchronized and syncopated to the clang and clamour of the pots and pans.

Because this will take the form of a “flicker” film, each photograph may appear for no more than 1/12 of a second and may be cropped, overlaid or masked with animation. So don't worry so much about the quality of your compositions – we want to see masses (of images and protesters), casseroles, signs, squares, and most of all red.

Since animators like fascists find that uniformity makes processing that much simpler, the only caveats are:

- each photographer prepare batches (folders) of images that have the same image resolution (minimum 1920 x 1080 pixels), orientation (vertical OR horizontal), and format (preferably jpgs, and please no ginormous file sizes). No worries about filenames though, as I will rename them anyhow.
- each animator send numbered image sequences (1080 x 1080 pixels) with an indication of speed (12 or 24 frames per second). Single images are welcome as they make great flickers.

If you have questions about the project and would like to participate, please email me directly at ar_loader@yahoo.ca. I have prepared a communal Dropbox site for large uploads. Of course, everyone who participates will be credited!

In the meantime, keep an eye (and ear) on this special issue of wi journal. There's plenty to check out and more content, including this project, will come!
